DEDICATION

Edward Ellsworth Holton

EIGHT AND TWENTY YEARS! Planers, shapers, lathes, milling machines, grinding, groaning, shrieking, squeaking; belts flapping, pulleys whirling, the penetrating squeal of adamant steel against rapidly revolving grinders, showers of sparks illuminating the murky atmosphere, over all and through all the pervasive smell of warm oil.

Where is this place and who is master here? One, tall and lean, darts here and there; a vigorous whirl of an adjusting handle on some machine, then the gentlest touch on a sensitive and exact measuring gauge. "How is this for size?" queries an anxious student. Out comes the micrometer and then a hasty adjustment of a high-powered lens set somewhat rakishly under the heavy overhanging brow. "One one-thousandth of an inch oversize; take it back for another cut, young man." The busy master views the student at the heat treating furnace. "Watch the temperature!" he exclaims, as the white hot flame curls around the inanimate but resisting steel. "Speed too fast!" A quick adjustment of belts on cone pulleys brings the desired number of revolutions on the lathe. And so it goes.

Taps, dies, chucks, gears, hammers, hack saws, files, wrenches; how the words fly here and there, bandied back and forth between master and pupil! What a record! Eight and twenty years!

Engines, engines, and still more engines, gauges, gears, water motors, hydraulic presses, drill presses, year after year issue unendingly from this place.

Who is responsible? Everyone at Tech knows; none but our friend and fellow worker, Edward Ellsworth Holton.

Out of the shop, the quick step, the pleasant greeting with the warm smile lighting up a face genial and friendly will be missed from the corridors of Tech.

And what of his influence with students past and present? It lives on with them, with the hundreds of them, the long line lengthening down the years.

— A. R. L.

Foreword

ALL New England is celebrating the coming of the Puritans three hundred years ago. Since Springfield, Massachusetts, is rich in colonial history, and since Technical High School has the distinction of being one of the first technical high schools in the country, the editorial board has chosen the Puritan for the theme of the nineteen hundred and thirty Tech Tiger. Sometimes the treatment is whimsical as in the cartoons; at others, serious as in the photographs of landmarks famous in the history of Springfield. One of the most beautiful links between old and new Springfield is the St. Gauden's statue of Deacon Samuel Chapin, a Puritan

High Honors at Tech

THE Charles F. Warner Achievement Medal, which is awarded semi-annually with the purpose of perpetuating Mr. Warner's great interest in young people, is the highest honor that Tech can give. Each semester a committee consisting of two alumni, four faculty members, two representatives each from the 12A and 12B classes, and the president of the 11A class choose from the graduating seniors the boy and the girl who, in their estimation, have been outstanding in scholarship, character, and leadership. Unlike most honors, this is a recognition not only of scholarship, but of service to the school. Frequently, this coveted honor is most difficult to award. Certainly, it is a splendid living memorial to Charles F. Warner, the beloved founder of this school.

The Three-Year Honors, an old tradition at Tech, are given to those students who have done excellent work in all of their subjects during their high school course. To achieve this honor, however, the student must be not only of high scholastic standing, but also an example of the Tech spirit as it is embodied in good school citizenship. These honors are based on the office records together with the vote of the faculty on the merit of the individual.

CHARLES F. WARNER ACHIEVEMENT MEDAL CLASS of 1929½

RICHARD ALDERSON BLAIR

SYLVIA MARION PUTNAM

RICHARD BLAIR, class treasurer for the last two semesters, was prominent in all branches of school life. Richard was a member of the Forum, Tau Delta Sigma, and the Science Club of which he was secretary. On the athletic field he participated in track to the extent of winning his letter. On the stage he was seen in Admirable Crichton and the Class Day Play. The fact that he was President of the Student Council during his senior year shows that he had won to an unusual degree the respect of the student body. As president of the council, he accomplished much of real value.

SYLVIA PUTNAM has the true spirit of leadership. Among the many offices she has held are president and vice-president of Nisimaha, vice-president of Athenaeum, secretary and president of the Senior Pro Merito. Sylvia was also active in the G. A. A., being on the Social Activities, the Treasure Hunt, and the Hare and Hounds Chase Committees. In class activities she was always willing to do more than her share. Sylvia is a Three Year Honor Student as well as a winner of the Charles F. Warner Achievement Medal.

CHARLES F. WARNER ACHIEVEMENT MEDAL CLASS of 1930

CARROLL GATES McQUEEN

RUTH LYDIA LINDQUIST

CARROLL McQUEEN is this semester's choice for the highest honor given at Tech. Carroll's school life was characterized by his fine leadership. He was a leader in every activity in which he took part. As president of his class, Carroll showed his ability to direct and yet keep the respect of his classmates. He was an affiliated board member of the Torch Club and president of the Tech Hi-Y Club. During his three years at Tech Carroll was a member of the Student Council. Here, as everywhere, his influence was felt in that he was responsible for more than one new measure presented to the council. A leader today, what possibilities tomorrow?

RUTH LINDQUIST exemplifies a true Charles F. Warner Achievement Medal winner. An athlete, a participant in school and class activities, and a student of merit; what more could be desired? In sports Ruth was a member of the girls' gym and hockey teams. For two years she was a representative to the Student Council. The positions of associate editor of Tech News and secretary of the class of 1930 were among her many achievements. She was president of Athenaeum, the G. A. A., and Le Salon. Ruth ended her splendid record at Tech by winning a three year honor medal.

Tau Delta Sigma

TECH'S TAU DELTA SIGMA, one of Tech's most popular clubs, holds meetings every Monday after school. After the business of the meeting is over, a short play is given by the members. In this way, promising young actors and actresses are discovered. Besides these meetings, they usually put on one long play each semester. Tryouts for membership are held for those that wish to join the club.

The Private Secretary

LAST June the Dramatic Club began considering its fall production. Mr. Smith selected several plays and read them to us, pointing out the best features of each. After much hectic discussion we decided on Charles Hawtrey's "The Private Secretary."

When fall rolled around, we commenced the selection of a cast. As usual, Mr. Smith let us experiment in many parts. You should have seen some of the combinations! They would have made you laugh and cry! Competition was hot and heavy. The parts were all good and all popular. Mr. Smith had his hands full. At last he announced his choice and the great struggle was on!

The first rehearsals went by fits and starts. Douglas couldn't be serious enough; Mrs. Stead tearful enough, and so it went. At last we had our characters and things went more smoothly. Mr. Spaulding, alias Ted Kresser, had a terrible time with his "props." The "goods and chattels" which so worried him were represented by books, rags, hats and other miscellaneous and nondescript articles from backstage.

In the second act when the girls, Alice Sullivan, Isma Mayher, and "Joe" Hobbs, entered, the plot thickened. The mischief, nonsense, and noise around the assembly hall thickened, too!

After the latest arrivals were in their parts and we had learned our lines, we sailed into the grand finale, the third act.

There the trouble commenced in earnest. Rod Linton and George Colton couldn't convince Mr. Smith, nor anyone else, that they were really in love. They lacked the fire and spirit of the true lover. A silly grin replaced the pleading glance; a snicker, the sigh. George even rewrote his love scene so that he could be more natural. Kind of fussy, eh?

The last week of rehearsals was before us. These always carry with them a different atmosphere. To climax these was dress rehearsal. There was much fitting, re-fitting, getting in and out and such proceedings before the temperamental stars were satisfied with their attire. Bruce Campbell and Jim Rowley couldn't make their stomach pads fit. Pins and cushions finally mastered the "propitiation."

The first performance went fine. "Stan" Bebler enjoyed himself immensely for about five minutes while he played with the siphon. "Al" and Isma appeared in beautiful gowns of which they were justly proud. "Joe" Hobbs couldn't make her old-fashioned skirt stay where it belonged. She really was quite nervous until she got control of the situation. Jim Rowley slammed the chest cover on Kresser's hand. The language Ted used was "just shameful." The second night passed without mishap.

There you are! Another bright link in the long chain of Smith productions. Once more we congratulate our coach and adviser, Mr. Smith, dramatic coach extraordinary!

Senior Pro Merito

TECH'S PRO MERITO is one of many such societies in the state of Massachusetts. It is primarily a scholarship society composed of members of the 12B and 12A classes, who have received an average of 85% or better in all their subjects during the Freshman and Junior years. Last semester, Tech was represented at the gathering of all the Pro Meritoes in this state. There is a feeling among the faculty and student body that this society should play a more important part in the life of Tech.

Forum

TECH'S FORUM was organized in 1907 for the purpose of promoting sociability and encouraging public speaking and debating among all the boys maintaining a "B" average or over in English. At the meetings after-dinner speeches and debates are given by the members. This semester the Forum put on a very interesting debate on "Whether or not West Springfield should be annexed to Springfield." A lively discussion was carried on by both parties, thereby showing the growing interest of the Forum in public matters.

The Athenaeum

THE ATHENAEUM is a club of girls chosen from the Junior and Senior classes who have obtained an average of 80% or better in English work. The purpose of the club is both social and literary. Poems are studied one semester; plays, the next. Every two weeks, meetings are held at the home of one of the members. This year the Athenaeum put on a very fine Christmas Assembly, representing some of the fine, old English Christmas customs. It was a great success; it showed the work that the Athenaeum is capable of doing.

ATHLETICS

Football

CHIEF" WALMER had over one hundred candidates from which to pick his squad. Although Tech did not have a championship team, it defeated the defending champ, Commerce, by an 18-0 score. Roger Roberts, captain, and Eddie Wallinius played brilliantly throughout the season and earned a place in the Union-Republican all-city team.

"Chief" has a veteran squad left and his hopes are high for the 1930 season.

Baseball

LAST YEAR the Tech team was an honor to the school and gave it the distinction of being the interscholastic champions. This year "Chief" has many veterans left and hopes to repeat last year's feat. The chief rival this year will be Cathedral, holders of last season's city championship, but with team work the squad hopes to conquer these rivals.

Basketball

THE TECH team started the season brilliantly by defeating both Central and Commerce by the close margin of two points. In these games the teamwork of "Cap" William Fitzpatrick and Tullio Francesconi featured. The team, however, was stopped by Cathedral and Trade in the two following games and Commerce avenged its defeat by beating Tech in the second struggle between the two teams. Out of town, Tech defeated Amherst but was turned back by Greenfield.

Crew

AS SPRINGFIELD is on the Connecticut River, it has advantages over many other inland cities. The well equipped high school boathouse and facilities are used extensively by the Tech crews.

Already the temporary first and second crews have raced the Pomfret second and third crews. Tech lost both races.

The crew has two more races in view. The annual interschool race on the Connecticut and the New England Regatta on the Charles River. Here Tech will race the high school crews of New England. If successful, they will probably race the prep schools of New England the following year.

Tech this year organized the first post-graduate crew in the history of rowing in Springfield.

Soccer

THE SOCCER TEAM enjoyed a very good season this year. Although it lost the championship to Central by only one point, the team went through its schedule with only three defeats out of ten games. This success was due to the co-operation of every fellow on the team.

Hockey

AS USUAL the Tech hockey team enjoyed a splendid season and for the first time pulled through a stiff schedule without a defeat. The boys eliminated all the teams in the city for an interschool championship and took into camp outsiders. This supremacy is proved by the fact that three of the Tech players earned a place in the all-city team, the players being Captain Ken Malstrom, Nelson and Hammond.

IN THE outdoor season of 1929, Tech competed at Suffield, Enfield, Northampton, and in the interschool meet. In the interschool meet "Bob" Bigelow, our present captain, clipped two seconds off the quarter-mile record and set a new mark. The team, however, was without the services of its old coach, "Ray" Parker, and lost the meet to Commerce by two points.

This year the team is coached by "Bob" Stout and the aspirants are anxious to regain the title.

The Tiger goes to press before the track season really begins. . . .

Girls' Soccer Team

THE GIRLS' SOCCER TEAM deserves as much praise as the boys' team. In their series with Central and Commerce they won both games by scores of 4-0 and 2-1. The outstanding players were Alice Herter, Peggy Kunitz and E. Johnson. The first team received block T's and the second team old English T's.

AROUND SCHOOL

THIS is one of the classier type of cars in which Tech students ride to school. The man behind the wheel is Howard Bozenhard, our hard hitting left tackle. Although Bozy doesn't own the car he sure does act it. Perched on the collapsable top (accent on collapse) is Phil Bartlett a more or less permanent fixture at Tech. Sh! Sh! This is a secret. Phil expects to graduate before the entering freshmen. Getting back to cars, however, one must admit that all the cars in Tech's backyard aren't Fords though they do predominate.

BRING on the brass band. Before you stand two exalted seniors. The one with the big laugh and a pair of specs is none other than our infallible friend Harold Mosedale. Why Harold was so good that they even asked him to try his hand at teaching. One dark and dismal day he was sent out to Myrtle Street School to educate the younger generation in the art of hitting the nail on the head. Unfortunately the report leaked out that Harold spent the whole day matching pennies with his prospective pupils. This killed Harold's chance of getting a state-wide contract for teaching manual training. Dick Blair, the other notable, is reputed to be something of a beauty. The tension of his correctly manicured hand is caused by great mental agitation which in turn is caused by the pencil behind his ear.

JUST another ford carrying its normal capacity. If you have ever ridden in one of these underslung you would have felt that they lack all the comforts of home. It is said that Tech's boy inventor, invented a contrivance to make riding easier, from the inspiration received while riding around in his underslung. These cars certainly lend themselves to artistic effects. The one in the picture was decorated with green ribbons from stern to bow on St. Patrick's Day. The most prominent color scheme, however, is the orange and black of Tech. As for horns, why these cars carry anything from steamboat whistles to hand sirens.

HAW! HAW! HE! HE! I'd like to know what Baldy Falt is laughing at. I'll bet Shorty Sprague has been around lately. Baldy Falt has the honor and privilege of having the biggest laugh in the class of '29½. Every time a roar is heard throughout Tech everyone immediately thinks of Baldy Falt or of Mr. Kiley exploding soap bubbles. Baldy's laugh was the bane of many a teacher. Where Ted got the nickname "Baldy" is a conjecture. Ted's head is covered by a lusty growth of hair making it probable that the nickname came from his laugh. I don't mean that his laugh was bare, but that it was undisguised.

WHAT's the picture of a factory doing in our year book? No, it isn't a factory as some observing boy scout will tell you. (Page John Westfall). It's the old boiler house along side of which you can see the parked cars of many teachers. They say that a lot of the heat from the boiler room escapes and makes it possible to park a car without alcohol in midwinter. This "propolition" is so attractive to the teachers that they often park their cars three deep around the building. The teachers, also, had this place set aside for their Packards, Cords, etc., because they did not like the idea of having their cars associate with the Fords, and Chevies of the students.

HARRY SAMBLE must be throwing his usual line of bunk. Anyway Bobby Chapman seems mighty interested. Harry is probably telling her how he once made a hole in par at the Longmeadow Country Club. Harry's chief fault, well it might be a fault, is that he likes Central or at least a part of it. He's dressed to the minute and good looking in the bargain. Barbara takes the cake for being the prettiest girl in the class of '30. That means something, too, for the class of '30 is not destitute of bathing beauties.

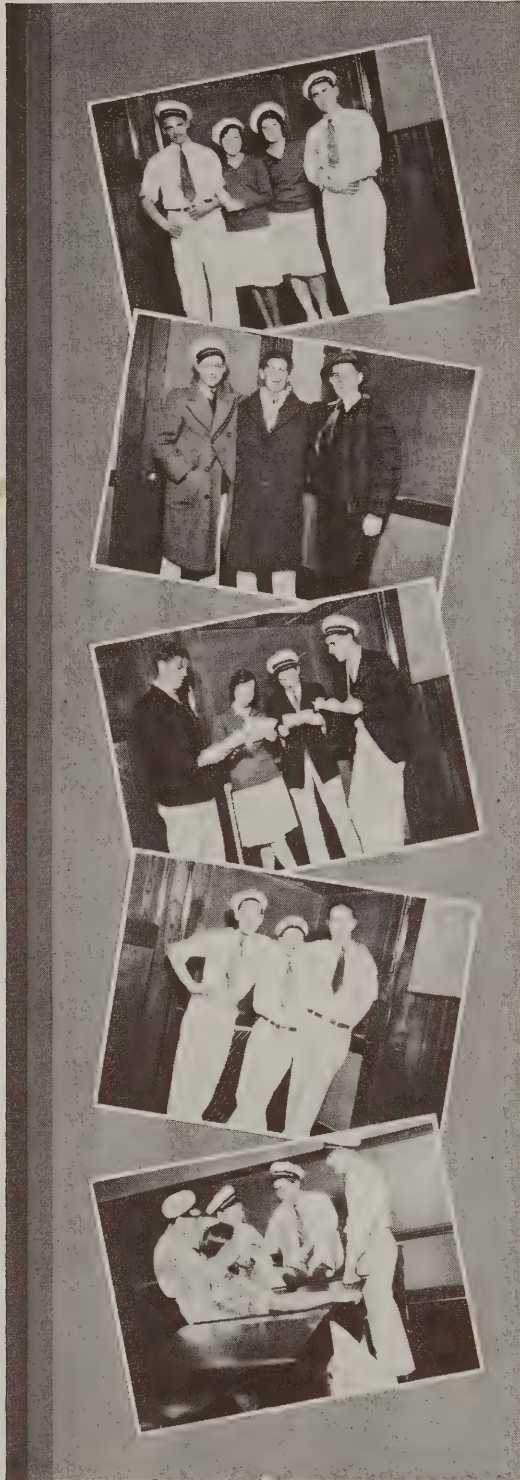

LOOKS as if the class of '30, left a statue to adorn the entrance of Tech High But, no, it is Sam Cherrick, class orator of '30, making a vigorous speech to an imaginary audience. Sam won the annual Tech oratorical contest with his speech on the Constitution and its relation to him. For a boy who had never been in an oratorical contest before, Sam, certainly, rose to the occasion and with his fiery speech won the day.

Lo and behold! Ruth Lindquist and Eugene Shumski accompanied by a few of their books. Ruth Lindquist broke or at least equaled one endurance record while at Tech. She was on the honor roll every marking period. Shumski attained the honor roll regularly until the last semester. With the coming of spring he fell in love or something to that effect. After a brief courtship she told him to run along. This so affected his heart that his head has since refused to work. Maybe the new car had something to do with it.

ILLUSTRATING the old adage, "Teamwork wins." These two sisters, Lillian and Carol Winchell, went through Tech arm in arm. They both won high honors in scholastics, though this wasn't the result of teamwork as they had a self established honor system which would not let one do the work of the other. Carol brought Tech into the limelight more than once as she was a student reporter for the Union.

JUST two little girls taking a P. G. In this case, though, P. G. doesn't mean a postponed graduate, but rather a post graduate. Agnes Rawstron and Sylvia Putman loved Tech so dearly that when their class graduated they remained. Others remained also, but their purpose was not to take a P. G. Sylvia ended her career as a member of the class of '29½, by winning the Warner Achievement Medal. Agnes is smiling, but Agnes always smiles.

SO SORRY, Walt, but we just couldn't keep out this picture. Doesn't Jack Brown look happy with Bob Thomas under his arm? As for Marjorie Payne, why she's too cute for words. The above seniors are Walter Kustwan, Marjorie Payne, Barbara Thomas, and Jack Brown. You know Barbara's a nice girl. Oh, so nice and different. Notice the hat, quite different from the others; but that's to be expected from Bobby. I hear she ransacked all the stores in Springfield and Ludlow just to get a hat that would make all the other girls green with envy. Jack is the fellow who is called upon when someone is needed to pound the piano.

A MISTAKE. A Pepsodent tooth paste ad gone astray. No, these certainly aren't Amos and Andy. Ah, a clue. They wear white flannels, sailor hats, and brilliant orange and black ties. Seniors at the end of class day. The guy with the sailor hat is Mike Tobin, the only fellow ever knocked out while cranking Baldy Falt's Buick. The youngster in the center is Frank McCarty, owner of that famous Dodge which way back in the gay nineties was trundled around by Henry Lackett. The last one in the picture is none other than our esteemed friend, Mr. Mosedale.

LET'S go! All set for the south seas. Several seniors trying to show us the correct attire for yachting? Gosh! no! This is a sad affair. It's the class will committee of '29½. Look them over, undergraduates; this is the group that spent several strenuous months trying to decide what to leave to the school and then finally decided they had nothing to leave. Reading from left to right they are Frank McCarty, Elva Ackerman, Mike Tobin, and Stanley Sprague. Frank McCarty seems to be trying to out shiek the college boys. Frank goes them one better; not only does he go around minus a hat but he never seems to comb his hair. Elva is the girl who one day found a can of razberries in her desk.

LAUGH, love, and live was the high pressure motto of these three. Swaine, gasping for breath, reminds one of a fish out of its natural element. That's it. Bob is separated from Walter Sullivan. Gerry Coe the next in line was a fast man in more ways than one. On the track he could scratch cinders quicker than anyone in Tech, and on the gym floor he made those Spanish dames look like two cents when he did the tango. Walt Sullivan almost took the prize as class woman hater. He was seen to walk the length of a corridor without a woman hanging to his coat tails.

EACH day from September, 1929, to January, 1930, an illustrious group of seniors gathered in room 23 to discuss the spiciest gossip of the day. Ted Kresser was head man of the show, but he was ably supported. Ted is one of the leading exponents of the theory that there is such a thing as the sub-conscious mind. As he says—it was the sub-conscious mind which drove him on to reach the high scholastic honors which he attained. Fred Barrett was seen in several Tech plays as a butler. His talent was acquired in the kitchen under the careful tutelage of his mother. In this group are some of the most serious-minded seniors of the class of '29½.

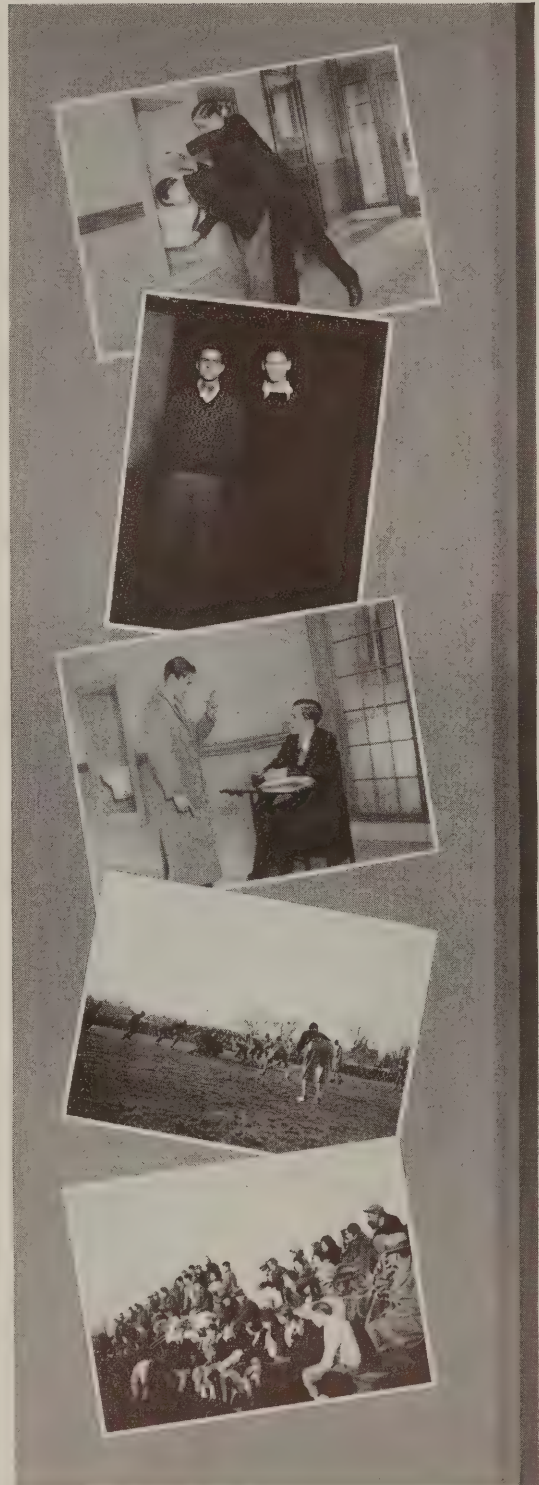

EVEN the scurrying mice stopped in the midst of their work to watch the tragedy about to be enacted. The stag at the brook drinking his fill and the tiger poised tensely above. The picture explains the rest. Our ambitious Student Council suggests the clever idea of having booths, lockable from the inside only, erected around each drinking fountain. This the Council assures us would insure domestic tranquility.

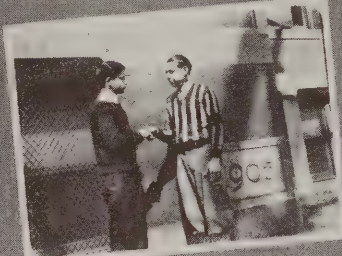

THE pride of '30½. These two boys have carried the colors of their class to the top of the list in both scholarship and athletics. Henry Frisbie, on the left, is reputed to be the champion Spanish type of athlete in school. Whatever that means. However, one must give the boy credit for he certainly delivered the goods. Some say this was from force of habit as he used to deliver groceries for an Atlantic and Pacific chain store. Tullio Francesconi, our other notable, as president of the Student Council put through a law whereby athletes who were in love could bestow their letters to their beloved. He probably had a good reason.

TRYING to pull off an old gag. Well, it won't work, for Tech has an efficient squad of corridor guardians trained by Mr. Cook. The lad in the shop coat is just one of the many who while wandering around in the corridors are sharply hailed by the guardians of the peace. When asked to produce a pass they produce one quickly enough, but unfortunately the corridor keepers usually notice that the pass is a week old or unsigned. Then follows the alibi.

THIS picture shows the Tech and Greenfield teams in action. Tech has the ball and is trying to bring it down the field. That they didn't succeed can be seen from the score 6-0 in favor of Greenfield. For no reason at all, except that spring's coming, I'd like to kick that fellow who is bending over.

LOYAL Tech rooters all of them. A section of the Tech grandstand at the Tech-Greenfield football game at Greenfield. Tech was beaten in the last minute of play by a proverbial hero act when Lobo of Greenfield went over our goal line to win a hard fought game for his team. The Tech band was at the game but could only be heard when the Greenfield band wasn't playing. Our principal and Mr. Spence can be seen in the center looking into the camera. Tech's three cheer leaders are seated in the front row, but by the looks of things Bill Foster is the only one that's doing any shouting. Gerry Coe, as usual, is occupied with a girl. The girl with the megaphone seems to have a lot to say. We hope it's good whatever it is.

Two extremists of the class of '30. Heavyweight Caesar Serra versus Flyweight George Dumas. Caesar with his ponderous bulk once had ambition to become a football man. He trained so arduously that he was finally given a chance in a practise game. The other team was trying to get through the Tech line. All Caesar had to do was to sit down and let the opposing player bounce off him. However, when Tech had the ball, things were different. Every time a Tech back tried to plunge through the line, he ran into the broad back of Caesar. Right then and there somebody decided in no kind and gentle language that Caesar couldn't play football.

AH! Somebody's getting a ticket for parking. No. It's just his most honorable majesty, the august president of the class of '30, and Eugene Shumski. President Carroll McQueen is giving Eugene some hints on how to do it. Why Shumski is copying them down is a conjecture. He probably wishes to publish them as, "Famous Sayings of a Famous Seer!" Carroll mutilated the traditional gavel so badly while tacking up decorations for a dance that it looks as if the class of '30 will be obliged to donate a new one.

WHEN Greek meets Greek there's a riot. In this case there's a lot of noise. Sam Chernick, left, class orator of '30, and Stanley Bebler, noisest boy of '30, are declaring a truce so that this all talking picture may be taken. Stan is a good comedian. All those that saw him as Viscount Deerford in Disraeli and as the society climbing tailor in The Private Secretary will bear witness to the fact that his antics raised havoc with many coat buttons. Stan, however, has his serious moments during which he composes poetry.

IN THE records of the class of '30, the lives of George Colton and Lois Fisher are in many respects similar. They are, respectively, the best boy and girl actors in the class as well as the most popular. George, a small petit brunet, rose to fame through his blushing modesty and complete lack of vanity. As for Lois her loss will be keenly felt by the dramatic element of the school, for her screaming is just perfect. To the regret of many, Lois was not seen on the Tech stage this year other than to sing "Hi-Ho everybody."

BLUSHING, bashful babies, that's these two. Harold Soule and Barbara Mowry are the two most bashful seniors in the class of '30. It took two days to get them to pose before the camera. Two days in succession Soule slipped out from under the photographer's nose. The picture was finally taken by having them both excused from a study period. You should know that Harold's hands are tied behind his back as he kept trying to cover his face. It's a lucky thing for Barbara that this picture isn't a technicolor, for then one could see the fierce red blush that suffuses her face.

THE smallest one of this group is Restless Rudy Rossing, the three "R's" in person. Restless is a human dynamo; he is always going somewhere, but where and why is something that even he doesn't know. The only thing Rudy ever is certain about is his devoted affection for Jennie Fields. To guide himself Chet wears headlights which can be seen attached to his shoes or did he actually polish them today. The youth at the right is of Swedish extraction. Doug Larson is his name and a regular square head is he.

WHAT is this? Judging from the way they all support their heads, it must be the club for feeble minded youngsters. But no, it is the masculine part of the '29½, prom committee with Harold Mosedale added for good measure. The boys seem to be trying out the good old Egyptian theory that numbers can accomplish anything. Just now Lovell, Bill, Gerry, Dick, and Harold are concentrating on a terrific problem. They are trying to decide whether all comers to the prom are to be allowed to carry their own refreshments, in the shape of eskimo pies, in their vest pockets or whether they should be charged 25 cents a peek at some ice cream.

GATHER round, fellows, Shorty has a story! Perhaps he is just telling his boss, the late editor of Tech News, Mitchell Kania, how to run his paper. Sprague thinks that the paper should contain more and funnier jokes; but Mitchell says what's the use of putting the jokes in the paper when Sprague spreads them around school beforehand. Sprague and Mitchell spent many a late hour at the Merry Job Printing Co. In his spare moments Sprague would read all the loose literature, good and bad, that he could lay his hands upon in the office.

JUDGE, the wonder magazine, has produced a somewhat startling effect upon this group of sober, judicially minded seniors. The magazine was presented to Ted Falt by the class of '29½, so that he could "read it and weep" if he ever forgot how to laugh. Frank Havens, at the left in the picture, was known through Tech as a rather clever artist. The fellow hiding his grin behind the magazine is Bill Chapman. Bill is terribly romantic. When the time before his class prom was getting short, Bill suddenly became interested in the art of toddling around the Tech "cigar box." He went to Densmore's select dancing academy to learn how to do it. There he met the girl of his dreams or something to that effect.

WE WONDER what it is that Bob Pease is handing to Dick Blair. Knowing Bob it can't be money, so it must be cigar coupons. When the bottom fell out of the stock market, the price of spats fell with it. That's why Bob was seen wearing spats the last days of his school life. While at Tech Bob devoted his time to the traffic situation. The congested conditions of the corridors were quickly remedied when Bob had the bright idea of having traffic officers lean against the walls instead of standing in the middle of the corridors. Dick is another one of these fresh air enthusiasts. In fact, he is seldom seen wearing a hat. Dick thinks up new ideas so fast that to cool his aching brow he had to adopt the air cooled motor method.

The Advantages of a Checking Account

A checking account has many advantages.

Payment of bills by check avoids the necessity of taking and preserving receipts, enables you to pay by mail, and relieves you of carrying substantial sums of cash on your person or in your home.

Aside from those conveniences, your checking account, if you carry a satisfactory balance, will give you a standing with your bank that will prove beneficial all through life.

We cordially solicit your account
